When: September 15 & 17, 2025

Where: Old School Community Center
1 School St., Wilmington
6:00 - 7:30 PM

Attend a Public Meeting & Provide Input

These are two different meetings. The first meeting is designed to gather local information and knowledge. The second meeting will provide conceptual design solutions to address adaptation concerns.

Planning for flooding on a town-by-town basis is a challenge, especially since waterways do not stop at town boundaries. This project will help communities explore local solutions and a path forward to address flooding and adaptation challenges, including best locations for new growth and development. The results are not binding but designed to help the towns think individually and collectively about adapting to flood risks.
